Mrs. Raiford Walker, formerly Miss Lavelette Martin, of this city, who has been making her home in Gainesville for some months, came down Saturday afternoon, and left on the evening train for Lake Weir, where she will spend a few days. Mr. Walker, who is in the railroad service, has been transferred from Jacksonville, and they will move to that city next week.

FOR CHRONIC DIARRHOEA

"While in the army in 1863 I was taken with chronic diarrhoea," says George M. Felton of South Gibson, Pa. "I have since tried many remedies but without any permanent relief, until Mr. A. W. Miles of this place persuaded me to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, one bottle of which stopped it at once." For sale by all druggists.

The baseball fans of Florida will be interested to know that Dominick J. Mullaney, who carried the Jacksonville ball team to victory last season, will again manage the Scouts next season, and will again make an effort to bring down the pennant.

Ion L. Farris a member of the last legislature, and member-elect of the next legislature, is a candidate for speaker.

OLD MEN—WHAT OF THEM?

Gradually approaching the biblical limit in point of years we are naturally more or less interested in the destiny of old men, and on our recent visit to New York we made it a point to ascertain the precise part they are performing in the drama of life.

It must be remembered that gray hairs and the length of years do not always bring decrepitude.

Men at sixty and seventy, and even at eighty, when they are in positions to do so, carry on vast business concerns.

Mr. Henry M. Flagler is a case in point. He has passed the biblical limit of three score years and ten by three years or more, yet is carrying on the most colossal business enterprises of any man, perhaps, in the whole world.

At the age of seventy-eight he is as straight as an arrow and as active as an athlete.

But Mr. Flagler has grown up in his business, and commands the necessary wealth to conduct the great enterprises he has on foot.

Were his wealth suddenly swept away from him by some great catastrophe, he would find it an exceedingly difficult matter to obtain employment at any price.

In the great struggle for existence there seems no place provided for men whose heads have been frosted over by the accumulation of years.

Call the muster roll of the fire departments of our cities, and you will find all young men.

Police departments—all young men. Car conductors—all young men. Motormen—all young men.

Clerks in hotels—all young men. Clerks in stores—all young men and young women.

Printers—all young men. Mergenthaler operators—all young men.

Telegraph operators—all young men. Typewriters and stenographers—all young men and young women.

Barbers—all young men. Newspaper reporters—all young men.

And so on throughout all the arteries of trade and commerce you will rarely find an old man in evidence, except where he owns the business, or has grown up in it.

Occasionally you will find an old man the master of a ship—but if you will make inquiry you will find that he has been there a long time, and if in the ledger of modern business methods he should lose out, he would find it an almost impossible task to find new employment.

So, too, occasionally you will find an old man in the pulpit, but a close inquiry will disclose the fact that the same rule obtains.

In the economy of the business world of today there seems to be no place for the "old man."

He is down and out! These truths have been more and more emphasized since Dr. Osler recommended the chloroforming of men past sixty.

What is the conclusion? Young men must more and more economize and prepare for that "rainy day" past sixty, that will come all too quickly.

A SURPRISED MINISTER

"For many years I have been a sufferer from bronchial catarrh, and had despaired of anything like a cure. Judge of my pleasant surprise when I first used Hyomei, which brought complete relief. Hyomei has been a veritable godsend."—Rev. Charles Hartley, Sardinia, Ohio.

Thousands of catarrh sufferers have given up in despair. They have tried stomach dosing, snuff, sprays and douches without success, and now believe catarrh to be incurable.

But the Postoffice Drug Store holds out hope to all distressed. They sell a remedy called Hyomei which is guaranteed for catarrh, colds, coughs, bronchitis, asthma and croup.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is medicated air, full of the healthy virtues of the mountain pines. You breathe in the delightful antiseptic air, and as it passes over the inflamed and germ-ridden membrane, it allays the inflammation, kills the germs, and drives out the disease.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, costs but $1, and an extra bottle of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, costs but 50 cents. See the Postoffice Drug Store about it today.

FINE CIGAR DISPLAY

George W. Hardee, manager of the Gonzalez & Sanchez Company's cigar factory, and Simon Benjamin, manager of the Pinkusson's West Bay street cigar store, yesterday arranged a beautiful window display of 5-cent Havana cigars, "made in Jacksonville" by the successful factory mentioned. The cigars are small and of excellent quality. Manager Benjamin is eagerly looking forward to the time when he can open his new store in the Masonic building, and says it will be one of the finest in the south.—Metropolis.
